

Missionary Prayer Connection

It was when I wept my way to Jesus as an eleven year old, that the words of the Prophet Isaiah started reverberating in my spirit - "Here I am Lord. Send me!" More than 50 years later, and almost as many nations later, the cry in my spirit is even more desperate. Today, as more and more natural disasters are shaking nations, there is a huge desire in my spirit to be a "first responder" not only with physical aid but with the life giving gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ. So I am asking the Lord for more open doors.

After serving 11 years in Mexico and 7 years in Estonia, the Lord released me into itinerant ministry when a prophet saw the hand of God pushing a spark plug into place and then pulling it out, only to plug it into another place. He said I was that spark plug that God would plug into many nations to bring life, and fire and new hope! That vision has taken me from the villages of Africa, to the teak forests of Thailand, to the windswept plains of Krygystan, to the secret churches in China, to the tsunami ravaged coast of Sri Lanka, to the Inuit in the frozen north and behind the sugar cane curtain in Cuba. All I can say is, "Thanks Father! I'm in your hands. Plug me into more countries."

A word was spoken over me, that when the videos of revivals on Earth are shown in heaven, my face will show up in those places time after time. What a privilege to have a small part in revival! I see it happening in Cuba as the Holy Spirit explodes in that country and I felt it in my spirit as God laid foundation for island transformation in Cape Dorset, Nunavut. Wherever I go my heart calls the prodigals home, invites the lost to come to Jesus, declares freedom for the captive and exhorts the Church to rise up and do the works of Jesus. So I'm asking for more years to extend His Kingdom. "Here I am Lord, send me!"
